The "Queen" selects the person to be nominated and finds where the money is carried. Then she signals to the gang and watches while the cash is extracted. The picketers are adept, often buying away the cash of a handkerchief from the person who is carrying it. The description of the "Queen" has been sent to all police stations. She is three feet high, five feet five inches weight, 125 pounds, complexion, olive, hair, dark. The young woman usually wears a black velvet suit, a heavy coat and a black hat with white trimming.

TWO NEAR DEATH BY SUICIDAL ATTEMPTS

Thompsonville, Ct., Dec. 12.—Two attempts at suicide were made here today. Daniel Harrington, fifty years old, who shot himself through the head, John T. Dyer, forty-three, shot himself through the chest with a razor. Both were taken to Mercy Hospital, Springfield, Mass., in critical condition. Dyer made his attempt at home. Harrington was found by his wife, who raised an alarm by knocking down a lamp. The work was the reason.

Lodge and Underwood 'Bombs' Turned to Be Chocolates

Washington, Dec. 12.—(By the Associated Press.)—Bombs of dynamite clockwork bombs and other internal machines came to a stop today among sections of the Senate Lodge and Underwood. American delegates to the annual limitation conference, when the morning mail brought in word, Senate's office a small, hermetically sealed, in package.

It was finally, weighed and certified. Finally, a tiny, tiny object disclosed a lot of soft, sweet chocolate from a Swiss hotel proprietor.

O'DONOR WAILS STORE HE MAY WITHDRAW

One of the most overhauling ever given in that district. Today the Boston Telegram has sent thousands of papers, in the hands of hundreds of boys, all over south Boston, to spread the ominous pennant. It is the interests of James M. Curley. Leave it to south Boston to make the proper answer to the insult, following on the heels of the betrayal of Joseph P. Timpane.

Curley's power this side of the granite wall is a fact. It is a fact that the city of South Boston does not intend to withdraw. It is a fact that the city of South Boston does not intend to withdraw. It is a fact that the city of South Boston does not intend to withdraw.

CHRISTMAS TURKEYS TO BE DOLLAR A POUND

Predict Poultry Prices in Boston Will Soar Skyward as Holiday Near

There are, for thousands of turkeys, a dollar a pound for Christmas. The price was the prediction made today by wholesale and retail dealers of Boston.

There is the primary market of the Middle and South West. From ten to ten cents per pound above the wholesale price in Boston and a steadily climbing.

The buyers strike at Thanksgiving is responsible for the present hour. Bostonians refused to pay for turkeys held over by the dealers when the market was at a low level. As a result of this, the dealers are doing their best to load the birds they have on hand in without much success.

If they attempted today to buy turkeys in the West, they would be forced to pay as much as fifty-cent a pound. The best they are getting here for prime birds is eight cents. In New York the figure quoted today was fifty-cent over a pound and rising like a balloon filled with the new price.

The final quotations on Saturday from Texas, St. Louis and Kansas City were fifty cents a pound. That the dealers, holding the turkeys, are doing their best to load the birds they have on hand in without much success.

It was freely predicted today that all New England will eat fewer turkeys this year for the reason.

WANTS PASTOR TO READ MIND OF CONGREGATION

In a minister applies psychically to his flock with his congregation he can find out what they are thinking about, and what they are doing, said Rev. Walter Wheeler, pastor of the Wesleyan Methodist Church, before the Unitarian church today in Canning Hall.

He said that he had been told that the minister should be able to read the mind of his congregation. He said that he had been told that the minister should be able to read the mind of his congregation.

There are the questions that Miss Margaret Thurston, sister of the missing man, is trying to answer. She is leading the search for her brother, who, according to the best of spirits, was last seen on a Friday night, when he was on a boat that he had just left in his pocket.

He disappeared. The last that was heard of him was that he had been seen by the Boston American. That young Thurston was planning to marry soon. In fact, he had already made many purchases of necessary things for his wedding. He was to wed the daughter of a friend who had been seen by the Boston American.

GABRILOWITSCH IN CLASSICAL PROGRAM

Conductor of Detroit Orchestra
Appears in Recital at Symphony Hall

Composer, pianist and conductor of the Detroit Orchestra, gave a recital yesterday afternoon in Symphony Hall. His duties as a composer make the name of Gabrilowitsch familiar to many, but there is still a person who advances his reputation as pianist, and his recital was a masterpiece of technique and style. The program was classical in character. It opened with the Handel Variations, popularly known as "The

CARDINAL O'CONNELL LAUDS CITY'S GUESTS

Cardinal O'Connell, addressing members of the Technology Club and the St. Vincent de Paul Society, declared that "great souls make great souls, and these are always made." He then turned his point with instances from the visits here of King Albert of Belgium, Maurice of France, General Dain. The cardinal said that he had been present when all of these men, seated at mass, and said that "no little children could have been more simple and devout than they were." He urged the men not to let worldly success turn their heads.

Bach's Basso Continuo, Mozart's Turkish March, Beethoven's Sonata No. 10 in D major, Schumann's C minor Sonata, Brahms' Rhapsody II minor, Chopin's Nocturne B major, and Liszt's Impromptu. There was also a Capriccio for the violin, which the cardinal himself played. The artist was in good form and seems to have lost little of his youthful vigor. He played with the hand of a virtuoso, and his tone was clear and bright.

Four hundred children, pupils of the Boston Music School Settlement, will be greeted at a concert today by Governor Cox, Lieutenant Governor Fuller, Mayor Peters and Pierre Salomon, secretary of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, who will call at the settlement's headquarters, No. 111 South Street, to hear a specially arranged musical program. The following is the list of the pupils:

STAR TALKS FROM LINER BY WIRELESS

Dec. 12.—Mary Pickford, the famous actress, aboard the liner, the Paris, 200 miles at sea, today broadcast a message of good wishes to the people of Boston. She said that she was very glad to be able to do so, and that she was sure that the people of Boston would be very glad to hear from her. She also said that she was very glad to be able to do so, and that she was sure that the people of Boston would be very glad to hear from her.

At present there is nothing about the scheme to make an A. No. 1 success of the work of the Red Stocking Community Christmas committee, which the league took over last January. As it is the first time the Junior League has done any work in its own name, every member is particularly anxious that the Red Stockings go on record as 100 per cent. joy-distributors.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON AFFAIRS OF SOCIETY Junior League's 'Red Stocking' Christmas Drive Is Now Under Way

By BETTY ALDEN

DISBURTANTE festivities are not permitted to monopolize the attention of the seventy-five odd buds who are being launched upon the social seas this season. For all the buds of the socially elite are enrolled as provisional members of the Junior League, and as such, it behooves them to lend a helping hand in the various causes of the league.

At present there is nothing about the scheme to make an A. No. 1 success of the work of the Red Stocking Community Christmas committee, which the league took over last January. As it is the first time the Junior League has done any work in its own name, every member is particularly anxious that the Red Stockings go on record as 100 per cent. joy-distributors.

The idea of the red stocking in this: The committee in charge of the work sends out hundreds of these red stockings through the various social agencies and churches throughout the city, and to the members of the league. These stockings are returned to the league, filled with gifts, and then distributed by the committee among the homes where they will bring the most happiness. The money that was raised last year was used to supply 1,000 Christmas trees, 2,000 wreaths and about 1,000 baskets of fruit. These were distributed through the Family Welfare Society and the various settlement houses in the city.

Miss Hilma Foster is in charge of the red stocking work. Miss Foster is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Foster of "Castle Farm," Charles River.

Though the trans-Atlantic mails are now too fast these days, every now and then, of course, bits of news come from foreign shores telling of the comings and goings of Bostonians and other social folk.

I hear that Miss Susan Lovering, who has been abroad for some time, plans to remain in Paris for the winter. Miss Lovering's brother, William Matthew Lovering, has an all-year-round home in Taunton, but both have numerous connections among the smart set of the city. Miss Lovering's name is the talk of the Junior League, and she is a member of the Junior League.

Other Bostonians abroad are Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Sears, with their family, are at present in the city of France. The Sears are the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Sears, and are not expected home here until the time to go to the winter estate at Beverly Cove on the North Shore, some time in June. Just as they did last year at the time of their coming home.

Other Bostonians abroad are Mr. and Mrs. Geoffrey Cabot of Cambridge and Beverly Farms, who are also in France. Mr. Cabot is also one of the American delegates at the Aviation Congress in Paris. Mr. and Mrs. Cabot, whose first stop on their trip around the world was in Spain, met the Keith family in Madrid. Mr. Keith is a member of the family, and his wife was formerly Katherine Ayer of Fiske's Crossing.

The fashionable world of the Hub thought concerned primarily, of course, with the doings of its own debutantes, does not refrain entirely from turning an interested eye upon progress of the group of New York buds possessing Boston connections.

Of this coterie, an outstanding member is Louise Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Wilson (Marion Mason) of Park Avenue. As Louise's mother originally hailed from Boston, it is highly probable that a number of the Hub's debutantes will participate in a number of the numerous festivities being planned for this Gotham bud by her core of distinguished relatives, and of the latter, I may say, there are not a few.

Miss Corinne Vanderbilt, one of Louise's aunts, will open her magnificent ball room, No. 54 Fifth Avenue, for a large dance in her niece's honor. This event will take place later in the season, for Miss Wilson has only just been formally presented by her parents at a reception in their home.

Another event planned for the one-time Marion Mason's daughter is the dinner and theatre party which another aunt, Mrs. Marshall Grace Wilson, the one-time "Gloria" Astor, daughter of the late Mrs. William Astor, will give shortly after the holidays.

Still another aunt, Mrs. Ogden Goelet, had arranged to give a dinner dance at their Fifth Avenue mansion in honor of the much-feted deb, but at the last minute she decided to remain with her daughter, the Duchess of Bonborough, in London. In place of the dinner dance the generous Mrs. Goelet cabled to this country, placing her bid—the most generous at the Metropolitan Opera House—at her niece's disposal for the entire season.

MAY BOOST NEW YORK POPULATION 3 MILLION

New York, Dec. 12.—The ancient discussion over the rivalry in growth between New York and London has been revived by the plan of the New York authority to solve the freight problem of the port. It would increase the metropolitan population from 2,713,019, compared with 2,620,048 for the five city boroughs given in last year's Federal census, to 5,222,222 persons in 1915.

CHRISTMAS FUNDS

The Boston local of the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks at their monthly meeting last night endorsed the Christmas Basket Fund of the Boston American and voted a contribution of $100. A like amount was donated to the Boston Post Fund. Presents were heard on the curriculum and schedule changes which go into effect today. President Kelley was instructed to go to Washington to discuss and present the views of the clerks to Postmaster General Hays. Traveling bags were presented by President Kelley and J. D. Murphy, national vice-president of the Federation, in appreciation of their work for the Lodge Amendment, which allows postal employees full credit in the postoffice service for the time spent with the military forces during the World War.

Of the debutantes functions taking place over the week-end was the dance given on Saturday night by Mrs. Charles G. Wald and her daughter, Mary Wald, at their home on Bay State road in honor of Miss Barbara Reynolds and Miss Ellen Whitney.

The Congressional Club at Washington opened its social season recently with an afternoon reception for the wives of delegation attending the arms conference. A section of the Marine Orchestra played in the entrance hall throughout the reception, which lasted from 5 to 7 o'clock. Mrs. Lennox, president of the club, headed the receiving line, which included other officers of the club. Mrs. Coolidge and Mrs. Gillett did the honors of the tea room.

Mrs. John Nicholas Brown has concluded her stay at Newport and has come to Boston, where she has taken an apartment at No. 181 Commonwealth avenue.

When you study your Christmas list, think of silver. For there are many gifts in silver which are sure to please, and you may suit your purse and at the same time gratify your desire for something of artistic design and lasting charm.

For a man there are military brushes, cigarette cases and boxes, card-cases, humidors, flasks, and picture frames. Among less expensive gifts are cuff-links for sport wear, key-chains, match-boxes, pocket dice, and other pocket trinkets.

For the young girl we suggest a whole toilet set (or a single piece if that is what your purse counsels), candlesticks, desk fittings, a vanity box, a card-case, or a mesh bag.

For the matron there are any number of table appointments either in sterling or Sheffield plate, vases, boudoir clocks, library fittings, and many other lovely things.

Our entire second floor is devoted to everything in silver except personal possessions, which will be found on the street floor. Bring your Christmas list with you and solve many a vexing problem.

BAXTER SEES HIS OWN VICTORY BY 10,000

Bulk of the Republican and Women's Votes Will Be for Him, Candidate Declares

Charles E. Baxter, majority candidate, speaking at several noon rallies today, said:

"The fight is won. The issue was a moral one and it had to win. Mr. Murphy cannot be elected. Lemaire's desperate appeal last night showed that he knew Murphy's chances have been growing weaker as the people gradually became aware of the real situation."

"The people now clearly know that no matter if Curley or Murphy should be elected, the same type of professional politicians and political schemers would be in control of the city. They know that by voting for Murphy, they would be justifying Lemaire, the Fitzgeralds and those who are now in the city."

"I am going to get a very large proportion of the women votes. I am going to get the great bulk of the Republican vote, and I am going to get considerable Democratic votes. Therefore I am going to win tomorrow by at least 10,000 plurality."

Move to Overthrow Present Chinese Government

By International News Service. Shanghai, Dec. 12.—A significant move to overthrow the present Chinese government has been made by the leaders of the movement to overthrow the present government.

Arrangements have been made by the leaders of the movement to overthrow the present government to circulate the nation with the slogan:

"Fighting is not the people's government."

Demonstrations are increasing daily throughout China as a protest against the direct negotiations being carried on at Washington for the settlement of the Shanghai case with Japan.

The Chinese press bitterly scorns American for bar it to prevent China in the Washington conference.

By International News Service. Hartford, Ct., Dec. 12.—Attorney-General Daugherty began his investigation here today of the New Haven & Hartford Railroad's subsidiary holdings. The inquiry, according to the Attorney-General, will be largely devoted to hearing of evidence to determine whether it is wise to bring about the return of these properties, consisting of trrolley bonds in this State and Massachusetts and the road's interest in the Boston & Maine, to the New Haven stockholders.

President E. J. Pearson and Vice-President Edward G. Buckland, who is also general counsel of the New Haven, appeared in behalf of the railroad.

CURLEY APPEAL TO GALLAGHER IS REJECTED

Pelletier Arbitrator Refuses to Take the Stump and Deny "Jobbing" Charge

James M. Curley made a final and emphatic effort today to win out in the contest of the Mayor of Boston, but failed to get his appeal to the arbitrator, J. J. Gallagher, accepted.

Curley called Gallagher on the telephone and asked him to speak at a rally in Faneuil square, and there take the "curse off" the maladministration.

BANK ACTS TO PRESERVE WILL OF B. S. BEAL

Suit Filed to Block Contest by Widow of Late Transit Commission Secretary

Runnings of dissimulation over the will of the late Benjamin Beal, who died November 23, 1920, leaving an estate valued at $53,321 to Miss Mary Catherine Beal, in recognition of her long and faithful service as his housekeeper, have come to light.

The State Street Trust Company today filed a bill in Superior Court to prevent Clark I. Beal, the widow, from contesting the will.

Beal was a Boston newspaperman and for a long time was secretary of the Boston Transit Commission. In 1911 an agreement was made between Beal and his wife whereby the would separate and he would pay her $13.33 a month.

In 1914 that agreement was cancelled and a new one was signed whereby Mrs. Beal was to receive $2,000 a year. Now Mrs. Beal wants to have the will set aside and the estate divided according to law. In this case she would receive about 125,000. The bank is acting as executor of the will.

Oldest "Girl," 110, Has Her Hair Bobbed

Newark, N. J., Dec. 12.—The oldest inmate of the Daughters of Israel Home for the Aged, 110 years old, is about to have her hair bobbed, "like the other girls," as she expressed it. The management of the home expressed her name, leaving her publication might offend wealthy relatives.

"I am only 110," she said, "and I expect to break the record of my grandmother, who lived to be 125."

In 1911 an agreement was made between Beal and his wife whereby the would separate and he would pay her $13.33 a month.

POLICEMAN IN HOTEL RAIDS ARRESTED

Put in Cell When He Would Not Admit He Was Drunk Saturday Night

Policeman Anthony Tobin, of the East End House, Station, one of the officers who participated in raids on Keefe's Hotel and the Hotel Clarence Saturday night, was arrested today on a charge of drunkenness.

Captain Charles T. Houston, who directed the raids, was the complainant. It is alleged that as a result of Tobin's actions Saturday night Houston ordered him back to the station house. Tobin was put in a cell when he would not sign a "mission," a technical paper substantiating his arrest.

In Municipal Court today he pleaded not guilty. Judge Dowd gave him until Friday to prepare his defence. Sergeant Dillman prosecuted the case.

Christmas Home Coming

When the Wintry air is crisp and clear, and the sparkling snow crunches under the feet, then there is no home-coming like that of Christmas, with reunited family, blazing hearth, and house-in-order, to make the welcoming a royal one.

With this sort of atmosphere nothing harmonizes more pleasingly yet sensibly than gifts of Paine furniture like those sketched—furniture of authentic design, sturdy construction, charming finish—furniture of substantial service, alive with lasting memories of the giver.

At right, Paine's mirror-black lamp, a highly polished, unbreakable vase, a perfect reproduction of Chinese black porcelain with cast brass top, Benjamin two-way fixtures, $42.50; and robin, hand decorated "parliament" shade, $12.

At left, fireside rocker, mahogany frame, upholstered in tapestry, $34.

—and floor after floor at Paine's is thronged with other suggestions, as desirable and as moderately priced, in furniture, draperies, rugs, lamps.

Solid mahogany English style drop leaf table, a distinguished gift, $36.

Mahogany fern stand, fitted with zinc, beautiful when it is filled with lacy ferns or flowering begonias, $15.50.

Mahogany inlaid tip table, clean-and-bell feet, $13.50.

Mahogany tea wagon, with generous drop leaves, rubber lined wheels, and glass removable tray, $39.

It is suggested that you save this information for future reference. It has been verified by the Boston Elevated Railway Commission.

Cambridge visitors to Paine's will be pleased with the accessibility of the new "Arlington" station of the Boylston Street subway.

From Belmont, Cambridge, and Watertown north of Beacon Street, surface cars run direct to "Harvard Square" station. Eight minutes more, and one is at Park Street, and from thence it is but four minutes to "Arlington."

Other parts of Watertown, Brighton, Newton and Brookline, travel by surface cars on Commonwealth Avenue, Beacon or Boylston Streets to the "Massachusetts" station of the Boylston Street subway— from which it is but three minutes to the second station beyond—"Arlington."

The running time from "Massachusetts" to "Arlington" station is only three minutes.

HUB GIRL MOTORS HER WAY EAST WITH OWN MARIONETTE SHOW

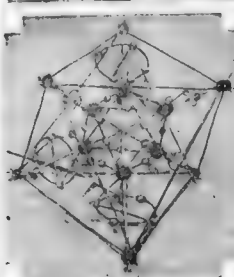

A LITTLE BIT OF LACE The machine, the invention of M. M. Shand, makes lace in the work of from 10 to 12 girls on the old lace-making device. It is a marvel. Worked 8 years to perfect it. Will make in and lace machine and are edgings in one operation.

HOP ON THE RUNNING BOARD, GIRLS! Gertrude M. Dolan, 212 Webster st., Rockland, Mass., is awarded $5 in the Pretty Material Text. Now is the time to enter. Address Pictorial Editor. All photos and negative will be returned.

PULLING STRINGS have sent these girls ahead in the world. Helen Pasbody, left, of Boston and Vera Platt of New York, were running short of funds when studying in San Francisco so they bought a liver, fitted up a marionette show, and started out across country. Made their little entertainment a paying investment. Here they are marionetting on the fly. (United Photo)

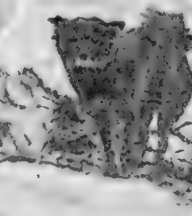

FOLKS, MEET MR. MOLE-CULE! Wire net model of how a mole-cule looks, prepared by Fred. Morse and Leah. Is 250,000,000 times larger than original.

LOOK AT HER NOW! Bobby Twinn from a sickly child became a talented dancer of difficult steps as the result of outdoor exercise—in all kinds of weather. Shown in her favorite athletic costume. (F.)

BOYS WILL BE BOYS! The after the young East African dandy has on his ear is not a phone receiver. It's an ear piece—very fashionable inserted in the distal lobe of his ear. A situat ring pieces upper rim of ear. (Int.)

THE POOR FISH! But Nanette doesn't care about the fish's feelings so long as they let her catch them as they swim by. She is a cross-eyed fish-king-chew dog. Lives at Sunbury-on-Thames, England. (U. & U.)

THAT TIRED FEELING! Foundation for the water waker, used for shooting ducks, is haped like ordinary auto tire. Boots are mounted in rubber-like popular in California. (F.)

AMELIA BURNHAM, popular and talented dancing teacher, whose clever pupils are helping to swell the American Christmas Bazaar Fund. Have you done your share to help the poor?

CHUMMING With Dead Ousel Dr. Sylvanus Griswold Morry, who has just spent 15 years in the jungles of Central America studying the habits and writings of the most original people of the Americas. He says they had a way of measuring time surpassing our own. Their way of writing numbers was better than that of the Romans, he declares. (U.)

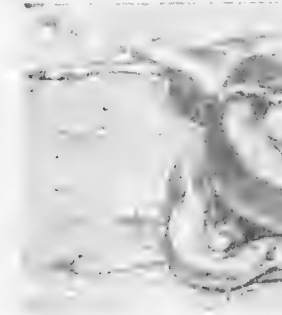

LOOT SWI One of the new French evening afternoon gown of light serge with contrasting white and blue fringes. The dress is edged with white silk. (W.)

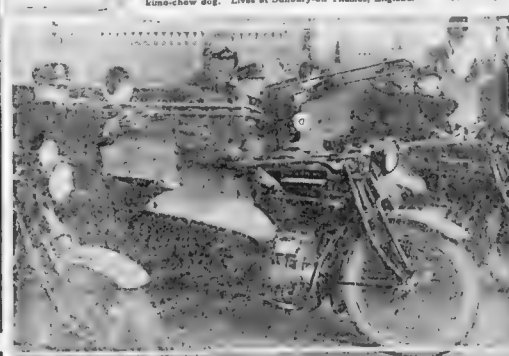

PEARLS ALL! Jacqueline Logan wears Mrs. Smith Wildman—but in the movies only. If they were real gems they'd cost—but gosh, there isn't room enough to tell you. (Int.)

GIVING YOU the "He, He!" These remarks a bird, laughing, are consp. about at over Austria, captured at ray's dawn and dusk. Said in a soft, sweet, and happy. Fed on frogs, snakes, lizards, etc. Make nice pets. Have pretty plumage. (G.)

A TRAGEDY OF THE FRENCH CONGO! A vivid and remarkable picture of a battle between a Congo crocodile and a gazelle. The lion's sharp horns evenly cut the crocodile before he was overpowered and crushed. The crocodile arrived just too late to save the animal, but the snake was captured and killed. The reptile came suddenly upon the gazelle and struck hard, winding itself slowly around the slender body. (W.)

STRIKE UP THE BAND! We have often heard music "on the run," and on the foot, too, but this is the first appearance of the sidcar band. The occasion for this musical oddity was the arrival of Governor Henry J. Allen of Kansas, at Chicago, to speak at a banquet. Our audite office boy says the reason the band men rode in sidcars was that they were ashamed of their big Chicago feet. We suspect this is an untruth, because he's never been further away than Chicago. (U. & U.)

WORLD'S SMALLEST BIBLE! It is only one inch square and contains both the Old and the New Testaments, has over 500 pages, and the type is so small that a magnifying glass is necessary to read it. Do you know that it is one of the most fascinating books in the world? (U. & U.)

DARTMOUTH AND BROWN RESUME RELATIONS

HANOVER, N. H., Dec. 12.—A three-year agreement with Brown and a long time agreement for athletic contests with that institution was the surprising feature of the 1932 Dartmouth football schedule, which was announced by the athletic board after its final meeting. The same, next year, will be played in Providence, owing to the fact that no suitable grounds could be obtained in Hanover for that date.

Four previous games, those of 1928, 1929, 1930 and 1931, were played at Hanover, N. H., and the 1932 game will be played at Providence, R. I., on Oct. 10. The Dartmouth team will be the opponent in the game played on the following Saturday and the Brown team will be the opponent in the game played on the following Sunday.

No football game has been played in the past two years but it is possible that a Western or southern team will be played after the regular season.

The note for the resumption of relations with Brown is a surprise, as the two schools have not played since 1929, and it is expected that the two schools will play each other in the future.

Heroic Ireland Has Won a Great Victory; Now Peace

Editor of Boston American:

THE heroism and devotion of the Irish people, soldier and civilian alike, have won a complete victory over British brutality. For the Irish leaders not to accept the beneficial fruits of that victory, but to insist upon substituting therefor the horrors of protracted civil war, would be madness.

No State in the American Union has today the freedom and individual independence which the glorious arms of Ireland have wrested from the mailed fist of the English government—not New York with five times the wealth and five times the population of Ireland—not Texas with five times the area—not any State, no matter how large, how rich, how populous, how powerful.

What more remains to be fought for? Nothing but absolute separation, and England will no more agree to that than in America the North would agree to the secession of the South. Such a question, so vital to the British Empire, would be fought to the bitter end with limitless bloodshed and suffering. That would be a disaster to England, to be sure, but a disaster to Ireland, too, and a sorrow to all the world.

Moreover, there is always the possibility that Ireland would fail in this extreme effort, just as the South failed, and that the Irish people, weakened by so long and devastating a war, would then be unable to secure the tremendous concessions which they have now forced England to offer them.

Every American, therefore, who sincerely loves Ireland will rejoice in the great victory that this heroic little island has won and will earnestly hope and reverently pray that the Irish people will proceed under the freedom they have secured to enjoy the peace and prosperity and position in the world which is so richly due their genius and their valor.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

De Valera and Boland vs. James M. Curley

President De Valera of the Irish Republic urged the Boston American to oppose the League of Nations upon the ground that the league would be used to oppress the down-trodden people of all lands, especially the oppressed peoples within the British empire.

Only a few days ago, the Irish Envoy to the United States wrote a letter to the American thanking, on behalf of the people of Ireland, this newspaper for having opposed the League of Nations.

In that connection Senator Mellen of Charlestown asked us to republish an editorial which we wrote at the time James M. Curley turned his coat on the League of Nations. This is the editorial. It was written a year ago:

Ask Mr. James M. Curley

We wonder how a man feels in Boston under the following circumstances:

He has advocated the cause of free Ireland in season and out of season for several years. He has made this demonstration of his constancy and devotion a personal political asset. He has acquired considerable credit in certain quarters by constant repetition of allegations of devotion to the cause of Irish freedom.

But then comes the crisis. Friends of the cause of suppressed peoples everywhere are asked in the great national election to vote to pledge the American people to aid in closing the door to the only way small people have found by which to escape to their freedom since the dark ages. The President of the Irish Republic has warned the friends of Irish freedom that the adoption of the League of Nations would be to close the door on the hopes of Ireland. Senator Walsh of Massachusetts has sounded the same warning. Hon. Frank P. Walsh, the delegate of the Irish people to the peace conference at Paris, sounded the same warning. The national convention of the Friends of Irish Freedom, meeting in New York two weeks ago, passed resolutions denouncing the League of Nations. The plain English of Articles 10, 11 and 15 make it impossible for any man of ordinary understanding not to realize the ominous portent of the league for those who want to see nations now under the heel of oppressors allowed to stand erect.

Under these conditions our devotee of Irish freedom tries to lead his friends who have put faith in him into the League of Nations by advising them to vote for Mr. Cox, Wilson's candidate for President and the avowed advocate of the League of Nations. And not satisfied with this, our devotee attempts publicly to use the great tragedy of MacSwiney's death to aid him. Then the people of Boston repudiate Mr. Cox by more than 30,000 plurality when Boston is normally Democratic by 25,000.

We wonder how a man feels under these circumstances? We wonder how he interprets the vote of Boston? We wonder what he thinks the people of Boston think of him under these circumstances?

If you are interested to know, we suggest that you ask Mr. James M. Curley.

Now Mr. Curley Promises to Build Homes for the Poor

Among the astounding promises which Mr. Curley is making on the stump is that he will build homes for the workmen if he is elected Mayor.

Well, if he had let the workmen keep their jobs on the pay they were receiving under Ex-Mayor Fitzgerald, and on the pay they are receiving under Mayor Peters, he might promise with some grace that he would build homes for the workmen.

The workmen must laugh to hear these promises from such a man as Mr. Curley, who promised all these things when he ran for Mayor first and did none of them after he was elected, but who threw workmen out of their jobs and who reduced their pay whenever he could and boasted about it, while he was trying to fall into the arms of the worst element of reformers, who always used John A. Sullivan as the old Irish landlord used the Irish constable; and in this capacity, also, Mr. Curley, seeking the smiles of the highbrows, appointed Mr. Sullivan corporation counsel and financial adviser.

The Poor at Long Island

The story which Mayor Peters told at Symphony Hall concerning the condition of the poor at Long Island during the Curley administration would bring tears to the eyes of anybody but Mr. Curley. Does he think that people will believe him when he says he will build houses for the poor, even if the Mayor had the power to do so, which he has not, after the story of his treatment of the workmen and the poor people, even in public institutions like Long Island?

More Inaccuracies by Mr. Curley

Almost every time Mr. Curley makes a speech, he says something which exposes his recklessness and his utter disregard for the truth. So long as there is no one to answer him on the spot, he is like the ostrich which sticks its head in the sand and thinks that he cannot be seen.

For example, the other night he selected Mayor Peters for attack as one of the rascals. At every rally, he attacks somebody. He never has a good word for any one but himself. But he attacked Mayor Peters in a statement that a place of property on the corner of Winter and Tremont streets, of which Mayor Peters is trustee, is assessed for only $225,000, when his, Curley's, real estate experts declared that it was worth $500,000.

Now the truth is that this property, standing in the name of Mayor Peters, is assessed for $610,000 instead of $225,000. Therefore, it is assessed for $385,000 more than even Mr. Curley's real estate experts declared it to be worth.

This is a fine example of Mr. Curley's accuracy, or better still, of his desire to tell the truth. It is perfectly safe to advise those who hear Mr. Curley to consider him simply as an entertainer, who does not undertake to tell the truth, but merely to entertain the crowd. As a matter of fact, he considers it quite a joke to be able to "get away" with these reckless statements to the crowd. So far as we can discover, his only supporters are young men, too young to remember his administration as Mayor. But before the campaign is over they will be told what kind of an administration he gave Boston and how many solemn promises made with dramatic gesture, left hand on heart and right hand raised to high heaven, were miserably broken.

More Dangerous Than Battleships

College Girls Old Maids

BERKLEY, Cal., Dec. 12.—A verbal bombshell breaking the peaceful ways of public interest and carrying endless discursive opportunities in its wake has been launched by Prof. Samuel J. Holmes head of the zoology department of the University of California, who says:

"Way do 50 per cent. of college women become old maids?"

"Why, on the other hand, do devotees of higher education seldom divorce?"

"Are the present world evils directly due to higher education?"

"Is the 'new' woman a traitor to the race?"

Professor Holmes answers all of these and more in the affirmative. "Fifty per cent. of college women remain unmarried," said the zoology professor emphatically. "Oh, know I am going to be doubted, because college girls are getting prettier each year, but that has no bearing on the matrimonial statistics."

Professor Holmes' theories have the background of figures to support them. College, he says, invites the cream of "the rare, children of the successful. Knowledge makes them aware of the full extent of matrimonial responsibility. They choose only after careful deliberation. Meanwhile many of them engage in lucrative occupations which tend to divert the mind from things matrimonial."

"Present day women who ascribe motherhood to a career are those upon whom the obligation of motherhood should rest, with the greatest weight," he says. "I have my doubts if the growing independence of women is an unmitigated blessing."

Now the truth is that this property, standing in the name of Mayor Peters, is assessed for $610,000 instead of $225,000. Therefore, it is assessed for $385,000 more than even Mr. Curley's real estate experts declared it to be worth.

Cut Drug Supply at Source

By Annie Laurie

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—What is America going to do about the traffic in drugs which is dragging thousands of men and women and boys and girls all over the country down to misery, despair, degradation and death?

In the last two years those whose eyes have been opened have watched the drug traffic growing until there is no village so remote as to hope to escape the infection, no family so guarded and secure that is safe from the deadly danger of the drug habit.

The drug ring is no "hempy" arrangement. It is a studied, well planned, well organized business, run by clever, unscrupulous men and helped by sullen, wretches who would sell their own souls and the souls of their neighbors for a few grains of morphine.

That is a question that it takes a great deal of practical, determined investigation to answer. But anyone who has ever looked into the matter at all knows that the ring is a powerful, relentless, determined State-wide, nation-wide, world-wide combination of unscrupulous people, who are not ashamed to make money out of the misery and despair of their fellow creatures.

You can't do anything with the drug ring by any merely local or merely national action.

England Rout Paris Chef

P. R. Dec. 12.—The French culinary flag is at half-mast today, for their kitchen diplomacy has suffered a serious check from across the Channel.

Chester—the great chef Chester—famous even before the portrait of him by Sir William Orpen was hung in the Royal Academy, is back again at the Chatham Grill in Paris, vanquished in London by roast beef, mutton chops, eggs and bacon, baked potatoes and even more boiled cabbage, boiled mutton and pickles.

Chester, in short, is defeated, disillusioned and bitter. And the worst of it is he knows now his rout was certain even before he began the great experiment which was to hand down his name to future generations of Englishmen as the man who had reformed the English breakfast.

There have been reformers and reformers. There was the German who tried to replace English "bacon and eggs" with large beer. There was the chap who tried to cook a sack full of Covent Garden, and there couldn't get in. And there were others.

But none of them had anything on Monsieur Chester, who had the lateral cheek, don't you know, to imagine he could stop Englishmen from eating sausages and bacon and eggs for breakfast.

Not content with reforming the English breakfast, Mr. Chester, with abolishing the mutton chop and cooking the celery, not content with a firm refusal to cook tomatoes with bacon, Chester did not hesitate to attack the most sacred gastronomic traditions in England—breakfast more than a thousand years old as proved by passages in King Arthur's romances to the Knights of the Round Table.
